

Just a Bit of Your Time

I know you gotta go
You won't be long, you won't be slow
You got all your people waiting
Expecting you to show

But it's gonna take just a bit of your time
It might take just a bit of your time
It only takes just a bit of your time
To make this man love you

Before you walk through that door
We need to talk just a little more
No, I ain't gonna ask that question
Like where you running around
It's all the time that you don't mention
That keeps me chasing you down
I may not stand so tall right now
But I'll be standing my ground

It's gonna take just a bit of your time
It might take just a bit of your time
It only takes just a bit of your time
To make this man love you

It's about time and memories that were meant to be
Just like you, they're always running out on me
Give me one night with just the light the stars can make
One more night without you is more than I can take

Do you think about me? Hell, I dream about you
Hold you in my arms, and you slip right through
But I'm gonna sweep the floor, I don't wanna hear no more
?... Have to change the sheet
The time it's gonna take is time you gotta make
We got buttons to sew
We got a cake to bake

It's gonna take just a bit of your
It's gonna take just a bit of your
It only takes just a bit of your time
To make this man love you
